THE MANCHESTER MARKET.

MANCHESTER, Sept. 29.—The cloth market last week was characterized by a lack of animation. The turnover was moderate. In some sections conditions were slightly better toward the end of the week, with more business occasionally, but the aggregate was small.

Inquiry for India was poor, most of the offers being impracticable. There was more inquiry in shirtings for China, which occasionally resulted in business, but price and delivery were difficult to arrange. The merchants were not eager to operate.

There was a steady miscellaneous demand for South America and the Mediterranean section.

Yarns continued unsettled, owing to the fluctuations in cotton. Buyers are operating cautiously.

OUR LONDON CABLE

The Money Market Shows a Slight Activity.

Business Still Quiet—Germany's Withdrawal of Gold Produces a Slight Nervousness—Fears of Large Withdrawals by France for Russia's Benefit—Reassuring Signs from the United States.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK TIMES.
Copyright, 1901.

LONDON, Sept. 29.—At the end of the quarter our money market is enjoying a little activity. It barely means one-half of 1 per cent. additional charge for time loans in the open market, together with the usual resort to the Bank of England, which is charging 3 per cent. for advances up to seven days. Call money also is occasionally at that figure in the open market, and it is probable that the pressure thus indicated will be felt to-morrow.

Business, however, is quiet in all directions, and the effect upon the discount rate would be scarcely visible if Germany had not suddenly bought £5,000,000 of gold from the Bank. The open market had been looking for German orders, but the exchange had not fallen to a figure that allowed purchases from the Bank to be made, except at a loss. Therefore the withdrawal was a surprise and produced a slight nervousness, expressed in the efforts on the part of bill brokers to squeeze another one-sixteenth or one-eighth of 1 per cent. out of their clients. Their success was not conspicuous because, until yesterday, when a fairly heavy American mail came to hand, the supply of bills was poor, and, such as it was, was vigorously competed for by the French.

One cause of the credit glut still is the enormous amounts of French banking capital employed here, and we are beginning to discuss what the effect would be of large withdrawals of this money at the end of the year. If France, as is probable, subscribes to the new loan, say £40,000,000, of Russia, nothing can be more certain than that French money now invested in our Government floating debt and first-class London bills will be taken home. Russia will not be able to borrow at 4 per cent., the actual rate, or probably a fraction more, and will tempt French capitalists to abandon 2½ to 3½ per cent. Some French capital might be withdrawn without disturbing our gold reserve, but if the withdrawals ran into tens of millions, we should inevitably see the metal leave us.

Germany, too, gives us anxiety, and it is feared that more gold will be taken away before the Reichsbank is sufficiently strong to encounter the Winter troubles. Banking, industrial, and mercantile failures continue in the Fatherland and produce gloomy forebodings in the minds of those most familiar with what has taken place there.

It must, however, be pointed out that, when compared with a year ago, every great European State bank is stronger in bullion. Even the Bank of Spain possesses a much larger stock than a twelvemonth back, and it is only in the larger value of the bills it is obliged to carry that the Reichsbank indicates a strained position of credit in Germany.

Were all circumstances, therefore, ordinary, I do not think there should be anything to fear. Unfortunately, neither our position nor theirs can continue ordinary. Apart altogether from our war demands, which continue enormous, there is a general reaction from excessive industrial activity all over Europe, and this is certain somewhere to put a strain upon the available supply of cash.

So we watch the symptoms and are surprised at the way your exchange has moved. It has been a great relief to find that just when we expected you to be emptying our bullion vaults the exchange barometer has moved in our favor. We now hope that what with the Australian gold you are receiving and the product of the mines in your own continent, it may be possible to leave you out of reckoning, but we shall have a roughish Winter in any case, and our domestic worries promise to multiply.

Look how our colonies are clamoring for money, every one of them except Canada, and our home municipalities cannot yet get their wants satisfied on anything like the old terms. Nottingham last week issued £200,000 sixths bills by public tender to keep it going, and they are all in the same box. India, too, must again bring forward its loan that failed, while behind everything looms up that monster, Chinese indemnity, which, through necessities, some of the powers may force upon the markets at no distant day. No wonder that our stock markets continue in a state of creeping paralysis.

ON THE LONDON EXCHANGE.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—The financial markets were upset all last week by the fluctuations in copper. Conservative observers here think it strange, when it is known that the Standard Oil millions are behind the Amalgamated and Anaconda, that reduced dividends were permitted at this particular juncture. A story is circulated, but has not been printed here, that the Rio Tinto Company, so largely controlled by London financiers, was invited to join the Amalgamated. The reply was a blunt refusal, whereupon the Amalgamated people deliberately raised a rumpus in copper. The yarn seems hardly credible.

London thinks it a pity that, in view of the great material prosperity of the United States, American rails were so lowered by a mere break in copper, but practically the same thing was to be found here all the week on a smaller scale in the fluctuations in Southeastern Railway stock, owing to conflicting reports about the Kent coal fields.

Little life was exhibited on the Stock Exchange all the week, the market being featureless, except for the recovery in coppers and American rails. The latter advanced well above New York parity. The general mining market was quiet, prices showing a hardening tendency.

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 29.—"The London Exchange," says the financial critic of The Sunday Special, "has become so Americanized that I need scarcely refer to any but the American market. The others hardly exist."

All authorities agree that the keynote of the situation last week was the copper position. Even West Africans, Rands, and West Australians fluctuated in sentimental harmony with the American market, as it rose or fell in consequence of the varying light thrown upon the Anaconda failure to pay the expected dividend.

One of the ablest experts draws attention to the "utter lack of sense of proportion which Europe, especially Paris, has exhibited by nearly going panic-stricken over such an apparently incidental affair as the copper matter." He points out that this serious state, which existed during the week, was due to a belief generally held in Germany and France that the inability of the Anaconda people to meet expectations was only the promonitory symptom of the collapse of all amalgamations of capital interests in the United States, the extent and methods of which have always passed the understanding of Old World financiers. It was several days before Europe recognized the falsity of such deductions.

The favorable American railroad receipts helped to gradual recoveries, not only in the American section, but all around, and, while the closing prices were generally below those that marked the opening of the week, a better feeling prevailed.

With business quiet, all sorts of rumors are rife regarding the intentions of the Amalgamated Company, the one most in favor being that the reduction of dividend was due to a plan of the managers to compel the other companies, notably Rio Tinto and Calumet, to join hands with the Amalgamated Company in curtailing the copper supply of the world.

CALENDAR FOR THE WEEK.
